Perniciaro court date delay expected

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro's attorney has asked for a delay in a federal court hearing regarding Perniciaro's indictment in Operation Pretense.

Operation Pretense, a federal investigation of supervisors throughout Mississippi, resulted in the July 9 arrest of Perniciaro on charges of mail fraud, bribery, extortion and conspiracy to defeat the unit system.

He was the second Gulf Coast supervisor arrested and the only one in Hancock County.

His attorney, Albert Necaise, said the supervisor's court date was originally set for Monday in Southern District Federal Court in Jackson before U.S. District Judge Tom Lee.

Necaise said Friday he has filed a motion for a continuance and, although the motion is expected to be sustained, does not yet know what Perniciaro's new court date will be.

The incidents listed in the indictment, issued July 8, allegedly occurred between August 1984 and September 1986.

The incidents include alleged arrangements for submission of false invoices from Holloman Equipment Company and Davis Chemical for goods never delivered and alleged

Hancock jail inmate slits wrists

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Dedeaux native Jeffrey J. Ladner, 30, slit his wrists Thursday night with a razor blade taken from a safety disposable razor and threatened to slit his throat.

There were apparently two contributing factors in Ladner's actions, according to Hancock County Jail Warden Jim Odom.

"Ladner has been very upset regarding his upcoming trial date," he said Friday morning.

Odom also said the excessive heat in the jail probably contributed to his actions.

"Ladner told me he just didn't want to live any more and that he could not stand the heat," Odom said. "He also kept repeating 'It is so hot.'

"Even with the ventilation system and fans working, it can still get up to 100 degrees inside the jail," Odom said.

After slitting both wrists, Ladner demanded to talk to Odom or Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson. Odom said when he arrived at the jail, Ladner was in his cell holding the blade to his throat.

"He said he was fixing to cut his throat and he meant it," Odom said Thursday night after Ladner was transported to Hancock Medical Center.

"I just talked to him for a while and calmed him down and when I asked for the razor, he threw it on the floor," he added.

According to Odom, the cuts on Ladner's wrist were superficial and he was returned to jail Friday morning.

Odom said jailers had not received any prior notice of Ladner contemplating suicide and his actions had been a total surprise.

The razor blade Ladner used was taken from a standard issue safety type disposable razor, Odom said. "The blade is less than a quarter

Ladner's actions will prevent him from being issued another razor and an officer must now be present when Ladner shaves, Odom said.

A trial date of Sept. 28 is scheduled

ROGER DALE LADNER

Single vote breaks tie, Ladner still supervisor

BY DENA BISNETTE

Incumbent Hancock County Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner has remained in office by a one-vote margin over challenger Jerry Medford.

Because he will face no Republican or independent challenger in the November election, Ladner will retain his office.

Medford and Ladner had tied Tuesday night in the second Democratic primary, but 43 affidavit votes remained to be counted.

When those votes were counted by the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee Thursday night and some of the affidavits were unacceptable or transferred to their correct precincts, Ladner came up on top with 1,157 votes and Medford followed with 1,156.

Both candidates had a total of 1,138 Tuesday and a recount of those votes requested by Democratic Executive Committee Chairperson Hilda Bourg Thursday showed the tie to be accurate, prior to the addition of the acceptable affidavit votes.

Bourg said one ballot which the counting machine would not accept Tuesday was accepted by the machine on Thursday. The votes on that ballot, which included a vote for Medford, were added along with the affidavits Thursday.

"That would have put Medford one ahead, and then when the affidavits were counted we would have had to change it," Bourg explained.

Had that particular ballot not been counted, Ladner would have won by two votes.

Affidavits are used when a person's name is not on the pollbooks, but that person contends that he is registered or illegally has been kept from registering.

Some affidavits counted and certified along with the rest of the votes Thursday were in incorrect precincts and had to be transferred, or names were left off the books.

In one situation, a voter had been crossed off the books as being deceased, Bourg said. Because the man explained that his wife was the person who had actually died, he was allowed to vote by affidavit and that vote was found acceptable.

Bourg said the affidavits made "no significant difference" in any races other than the dead heat for Beat Three supervisor.

Medford was at the courthouse as the votes were being counted but Ladner sent family members to hear the voters' final verdict.

Medford described himself as "cool" rather than nervous as the certification process began, saying, "I have nothing to lose. It's not as if I were the incumbent."

Later, as Election Commissioner James Ladner prepared to read off vote totals, the candidate said, "At this point, it does make you nervous when you hear them say it will be announced in just a few minutes... I wonder where Roger Dale is?"

"This is more exciting than the Super Bowl."

Totals by precinct for Ladner, with the added affidavits, included 256, Crane Creek; 301, Standard; 270, Dedeaux; 244, North Bay West; and 86, Diamondhead.

In comparing the unofficial totals from Tuesday, he gained three in Crane Creek, six in Standard, three in Dedeaux, seven in North Bay West and none in Diamondhead.

Votes for Medford totalled 93, Crane Creek, 141, Standard; 64, Dedeaux; 274, North Bay West; and 584, Diamondhead.

Medford gained one vote in Standard, 11 in North Bay West, six in Diamondhead and none in Crane Creek.

Delinquent tax sales scheduled for Monday

BY DENA BISNETTE

Annual sale of property for delinquent taxes is scheduled for Monday in Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

According to Lee Bennett, reappraisal specialist for the Hancock County Tax Collector and Assessor's Office, the county tax sale will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the courtroom on the second floor of the Hancock County Courthouse.

The sale will continue until noon, then start again at 1:30 p.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. Bennett said the sale would last several days if necessary.

The Hancock County and Bay St. Louis Delinquent Tax Sales will be conducted by Edward Murtagh, assessor-tax collector's staff.

Bidders should arrive at 8:10 a.m. to register.

The Bay St. Louis sale will have the same schedule and will be conducted in the Bay City Council's meeting room at Bay City Hall, Ben-

County school board rejects classrooms bids

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County School Board rejected bids on a six-classroom addition at Gulfview Elementary and authorized the architect to add two more classrooms to the plans.

"With some many new students and in light of the increased enrollment we again have students in classrooms converted from halls," Superintendent Terrell Randolph told the board Friday at a recess meeting.

"Six additional classrooms will not be enough for the next two to three years until the new junior senior high school is built," he continued.

William Thompkins, architect for the $6.6 million building program, also recommended to the board to reject existing bids and readvertise the project with the extra space.

Thompkins also stated bid packages including the additional classrooms would be distributed to contractors who had paid a deposit on the original bid package for no extra charge.

Board Member Wain King questioned Thompkins on reported problems with bidders having access to the project.

Money seized in gambling raids returned

More than $8,000 seized in gambling raids at two veterans' posts last year has been returned to the organizations by Bay St. Louis city officials.

Checks for $6,542 and $1,700 respectively have been hand-delivered to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3233 and the Disabled American Veterans Post 50, according to Mayor Victor J. Franckiewicz.

Circuit Court Judge James E. Thomas ordered all money seized at the VFW and about half the amount seized at the DAV be returned. His order, dated July 30, was based on a motion from District Attorney Cono Caranna's office stating there is no evidence monies at issue were used in connection with gambling.

Franckiewicz says this is a complete reversal of the district attorney's position.

Prior to this motion the district attorney's office refused to let the city release any of the money, he added.

"We feel the D.A. did not try to establish that this money was illegal gambling proceeds and could be used as evidence," he said.

Franckiewicz said although he had worked for about 18 months to have legitimate money returned to the financially ailing organizations, the amount ordered to be returned is too much.

Earlier this month Franckiewicz reported plans to request the figures be reduced after police officials went through their notes and videotapes to see if it could be determined how much money was taken from safes and how much from slot machines.

"We decided to go with the court order and not fight it," he said. "It would have taken a lot of time, and we certainly didn't have the support of the D.A. on it."

The mayor said city officials are "glad the clubs could get some money back. We're not happy with the way the matter was handled by the district attorney's office."

The monies were seized, along with 24 slot machines, when police simultaneously raided the two posts on Jan. 24, 1986. Police seized $2,160 in $1 tokens from the DAV. The tokens and cash were then put in a vault to be kept for evidence in a pending criminal suit against Agnel Moran, 72, of Fenton.

Moran has been charged with three counts of racketeering in the elected officials. I will continue to support good government and fairness to all citizens and I will be there to help," Medford said.

"It was a good race, a very clean campaign. I received a lot of support from a lot of good people."

"I think I did very well. It's hard to beat an incumbent," Medford stated.

Before leaving the courthouse, Medford made a brief statement in which he commended the Democratic Executive Committee and the election commission for a "very smoothly run and fair election."

Ladner, reached at home by telephone, said he was happy the suspense over the tie was finished.

"I'm really, really, really surprised. For a while I didn't think I could pull it out," the supervisor said.

"I had prayed about it and asked God to do what was best for my family, me and the people of Hancock County and I was prepared to live with His decision."

"This has been an experience I will never, ever forget. It's by far the hardest campaign I have ever had. They (Medford and his supporters) really worked hard and had a real organization."

Although state law dictates that the election commissioners would have had to draw lots had the number of votes remained a tie, Ladner said he would have immediately contacted Medford and asked that the matter be settled Thursday night.

"I'd get with Jerry tonight and we'd toss a coin or something rather than go through that again. It was a lot of pressure. It was a nightmare and I thank God it's over."

Going,

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Not everyone knows where Gex Street in Bay St. Louis is located but it was a very popular place Friday. Nearly 100 prospective buyers, car enthusiasts, interested parties and curious onlookers gathered Friday morning on the one-way street beside the Hancock County Courthouse to look over two English luxury cars which were auctioned at 11 a.m.

Some of the interested parties came only as far as Harrison County but others came all the way from Florida.

Not everyone stopped for a closer examination, some just made the block an extra one, two or three times.

Some people played hooky from work to come to the auction and said "don't put my name in the paper." Judge John Morris set the auction of the two classic Bentley automobiles to satisfy a judgement in which it was determined car owner Herbert C. Labouisse had failed to pay child support to Eden laboisse, his former wife, and also had not funded a trust for their three children, according to Attorney Timothy L. Murr of Gulfport.

Chuck Ramsey of Waveland was the high bidder of $10,800 for a grey-green 1961 four-door S-2 model.

Lawrence Steelman of Biloxi purchased the blue and silver two-door T. James Young model.

Quotables by Cuevas '99

The tension continued to mount Thursday night as the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee recounted the votes in District Three following Districts One, Two, Four and Five.

The recount of the regular ballots still showed Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner and challenger Jerry Medford with a 1,138 each.

The affidavit votes began to be counted with six of those being disallowed for varying reasons, such as not registering early enough, not being registered or voting in the wrong district.

The tension from the tie vote had continued from Tuesday night's unofficial tally and it wasn't to about 8 p.m. when the affidavit votes were counted.

Shouts of joy were expressed by the family and supporters of Roger Dale Ladner as he was declared the official winner by a one-vote margin.

Of the 37 affidavit votes counted, Ladner received 19 while Medford received 18, making the final tally Ladner 1,157 to Medford's 1,156.

We are sure shouts of joy would have been expressed by Medford and his supporters if the vote had been in his favor.

As a matter of fact one of the first persons congratulated on the victory by Medford was Ladner's mother.

It was a close race, and we know there are folks around who failed to vote on Tuesday and are kicking themselves for not doing so.

This just reinforces the the fact on how every vote does count.

Congratulations are in order for both Ladner and Medford for having had a good hard-fought tension-filled race.

While on the subject of the election, I would at this time like to commend all of the candidates in the primary elections for their conduct during the campaign.

I have been watching political campaigns for many years, and I feel the campaigns conducted over the past several months have been the 'cleanest' I have ever witnessed in Hancock County.

All of the candidates appeared to have respected the other and we understand there even have been some real friendships developed between opponents.

The big Labor Day Weekend is ahead with a wide variety of activities scheduled for the area.

Among the most traditional for our area will be the Lipton Regatta at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

Also becoming traditions are the Waveland Civic Association's Muscular Dystrophy Telethon and Fire Works celebration.

A new event for our area will be the Bay Cove Marina's In-Water Boat Show.

These along with a lot of other events should mean a tremendous increase in the number of persons in our area.

Our roadways and waterways will be very busy and we hope everyone will use extreme caution.

Students are already looking forward to holidays from school.

REPORT TO MISSISSIPPIANS

WORKING TOGETHER WILL HELP COMBAT DRUG ABUSE PROBLEMS

Nearly every state and every community, big or small, is experiencing growing problems with drug abuse. Throughout the nation, countless individuals and families are suffering the effects of this problem. Not only do the users themselves suffer, but the lives of family members, friends, classmates, neighbors and others are adversely affected by drug abuse.

In Mississippi, reports of drug seizures have risen at an alarming rate of 9000 percent since 1980. Figures show that illicit drug abuse is responsible for 80 percent of the violent crimes in the state, including burglaries, robberies, rapes and murders.

The costs to our country of this worsening problem are enormous. Our productivity is seriously impaired by mind-damaging drugs. Our competitiveness in the world market is affected.

The federal government has taken an active role in fighting this problem through the enactment of legislation which seeks to halt the flow of drugs into the country. We've worked to impose stronger penalties on those who deal with drugs. And we've sought to enforce laws which deal with drug abusers. But the problem is massive, and the lure of big financial profits drive people in the drug business to devise complex and, unfortunately, highly successful methods of circumventing authorities.

Legislation and federal funding for drug programs are not enough. We know that we cannot realistically expect to keep all illegal drugs out of this country or even come close to that objective. If we are to make headway in the fight against drug abuse, we must work together in a variety of ways to lessen the demand for drugs at the same time we are working to halt their flow.

Education is a vital key to the problem of drug abuse. We must work to educate young people, parents, school personnel, and community, state and national leaders on the dangers of drug abuse. This will take involvement on every level.

There are some very fine groups in communities throughout Mississippi who are working hard to prevent drug abuse, and I am frankly encouraged by their efforts. More of this type of activity is needed to turn the tide on drug abuse. Our First Lady, Nancy Reagan, has made some very meaningful contributions in this regard, for which I am grateful. She is a wonderful example of the personal responsibility we should all feel to do what we can about this problem.

I will continue to work to rid our country of the crippling effects of drug abuse. However, if we are to make progress in this fight, we must be willing to give this a high priority, we must have involvement, and we must work together.

Governor Allain proclaims September

Governor William A. Allain has issued a proclamation declaring September, 1987 as "Share Your Love For Dogs Month" in Mississippi.

The month also marks the beginning of the fifth annual "Share Your Love For Dogs" fund-raising drive to benefit non-profit animal shelters.

Mississippi's animal shelters including the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland, are among the over 1,500 local shelters and humane societies across the country participating in the year-round campaign, which is co-sponsored by the American Humane Association (AHA), a national umbrella organization for nearly 4,000 animal shelters, and Gaines Pet Foods Corp., a leading dog food manufacturer.

To date, the program has raised more than $700,000 for the AHA and participating organizations.

"The 'Share Your Love For Dogs' program allows dog owners to offer desperately needed financial assistance to their local animal shelter without making an actual dollar contribution," explained AHA executive director Larry Brown.

Through this one-of-a-kind fund-raising effort, animal shelters collect starred markers from participating Gaines dog food products—Cycle, Gravy Train, Burgers, and Top Choice/Puppy Choice/Prime Variety—and then redeem them for cash from the pet food company.

Last year, Associated Humane Societies of New Jersey was the top money earner in the country, raising $4,356 through the program.

"These funds," said Brown, "have enabled the AHA and its affiliates to increase pet adoptions, improve the quality of shelter operations, perform more spay-neuter operations, buy food, educate new and prospective pet owners, and protect the interests of homeless pets."

In his proclamation, Allain urged Mississippi residents "to participate in the activities planned to benefit animal shelters."

Matters of Health

Don't let food poisoning spoil your picnic

More cases of food poisoning occur during the summer than in any other time of the year.

Staphylococcus bacteria are responsible for most summer food poisonings because they find a welcome environment in foods that have been left unrefrigerated, particularly high-protein foods and dairy products. Contrary to popular belief, contaminated mayonnaise is not a leading cause of food poisoning.

"Staph" bacteria are normally present in our noses, throats and open wounds. They find their way into food when we cough or blow our noses or when we touch food without washing our hands first. It's almost inevitable that staph bacteria will reach food from the hands of people preparing or serving it. The bacteria only becomes a problem when it multiplies in foods that aren't refrigerated properly.

Salmonella bacteria, which are carried by household pets as well as animals slaughtered for food, also are responsible for many cases of food poisoning. These bacteria are killed in foods that have been cooked at a minimum of 140 degrees Fahrenheit for at least 10 minutes.

That's why insufficiently heated, canned ham or undercooked pork are common sources of salmonella poisoning. The bacteria are also present in animal feces, and they can contaminate food by way of flies or the unwashed hands of people who've emptied the litter box or tidied up the lawn.

Time and temperature encourage the growth of bacteria that cause food poisoning. The danger zone for food poisoning is 40-140 degrees Fahrenheit. The more time that elapses between the preparation and consumption of certain foods, the greater the opportunity for bacteria to multiply. For example, family and friends at a backyard party on a warm summer day can get sick from eating barbecued chicken that has sat on a picnic table for only a few hours.

Food poisoning caused by staph isn't usually serious, but it can be a miserable experience. Between 30 minutes and eight hours after eating contaminated food, you suddenly feel very sick and experience vomiting, headache and extreme weakness. You may not attribute these symptoms to food poisoning at first, since contaminated food often doesn't taste unusual.

Your discomfort will last a few days at most, and unfortunately, there's not much you can do except to drink a lot of clear liquids. Allowing the body to use its own defenses to eliminate the staph bacteria seems to be the best treatment for most people.

Salmonella, on the other hand, can cause more serious trouble because diarrhea and fever are commonly seen. This bacterial poisoning may require attention in the emergency room of your local hospital.

If you're hosting an outdoor party, you can keep noxious bacteria off your guest list by planning the menu carefully. Avoid ham and other salt-cured products, which account for many outbreaks of food poisoning.

The safest meats are those cooked at the time of eating, not ahead. Crackers, hard cheese, raw fruits and vegetables are always safe bets for outdoor parties. Serve dry desserts such as brownies and cookies. Avoid creamy cakes and pies.

Keep cold foods cold, hot foods hot, and all food covered. Don't allow meats and other protein foods to remain at room temperature. After cooking, don't cool foods on the stove or counter. Serve or refrigerate them immediately.

Keep your hands clean and handle the foods as little as possible before it is served. Make sure your guests use serving utensils.

As a guest at an outdoor party, avoid meat or egg dishes and creamy desserts that have been left out for several hours. Keep your hands clean and use utensils.

Mock disaster tests emergency services

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Civil Defense Department and heads of various emergency services will meet next week to discuss the results of a Thursday morning disaster drill.

The mock disaster, a train derailment, included a hazardous chemical spill, a radiation hazard and an apartment fire, Boudin said.

The radiation hazard, located at Central Avenue and Washington Street, was a staged problem for the Bay St. Louis Police Department, Mobile Medic and the emergency personnel at Hancock Medical Center.

A police officer, Linda Davis, donned her only available protection, a raincoat and gloves, to "arrest" two "looters" who had opened boxes of radioactive material from a train car and had inadvertently contaminated themselves.

The looters were actually two of 16 volunteers from the Retired Senior Volunteers Program who served as accident victims, most of whom wore fake injuries taped to their bodies by members of Memorial Hospital's educational research department.

Another group of volunteers were taken to LaFitte Street and Central Avenue in Waveland, where a Ford Bronco was parked to simulate an overturned tank car carrying a hazardous chemical.

On one side of the "spill" site, a Waveland police car guarded the road. On the other side was a Waveland Fire Department unit coping with problems caused by the chemical, identified as citric acid for the purposes of the drill.

Down on LaFitte Street, fire department Lt. Bill Field III was in charge of a command post, where his men had gone through the motions of moving the injured from the spill site to safety to await Mobile Medic and were proceeding with a mock evacuation of the neighborhood.

At Chateau de St. Louis Apartments in Bay St. Louis, Mobile Medic was picking up the victims of a simulated apartment fire related to the accident.

At Hancock General Hospital, Dr. William Bradford and emergency room personnel worked with the volunteers acting as victims of injuries ranging from burns and fractures to a severed hand.

Other emergency personnel were called in as needed to assist, then department heads met briefly with Boudin in the afternoon to discuss their initial reactions to the drill.

Only Boudin, County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh, and a few other people knew exactly when the drill would take place.

Among the areas looked at were hazardous chemical training for police and fire personnel; communications, much of which was handled by the county's central fire dispatcher, Bay St. Louis Fire Department; fire department mutual aid; response time; evacuation plans; how well the various emergency services coordinate efforts; the ability of the two hospitals and the ambulance service to handle a large number of emergency patients at one time; and what could happen if an unrelated incident, a staged fire at Blossman Gas, occurred during a disaster.

Each department head was asked to prepare an individual critique. Once those are completed, they will meet with Boudin to iron out any problems that may become apparent.

Observing the entire project were enforcement officers from the Mississippi Public Service Commission, which handles hazardous chemical spills.

Two-county area closing in on water system grant

BY DENA BISNETTE

Residents of the Catahoula Community in northern Hancock County have progressed a step closer to obtaining $654,615 in Community Development Block Grant funds for construction of a rural water system.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, engineers and a grant consultant met Monday to discuss the application with two representatives of the Governor's Office of Community Development, Gary Anderson and Damien Mercier.

The grant application is a joint application for Hancock and Pearl River counties, because the system would serve Steep Hollow, Savannah and other areas near or on the Hancock-Pearl River county line.

According to Harvey Nixon of Nixon and Associates, the grant consultant, the application is actually for two water associations that would be served by a well located in Catahoula.

The area is currently served by individual shallow wells. The project calls for a deep well with a ground-level pressure tank on donated property.

Nixon said an elevated tank was not planned because a limit on the amount of grant funding that can be obtained will not provide enough money for that type of structure.

The two associations are designated as the Catahoula Water System and the Bi-County Water System.

Anderson said the grant application was one of 144 submitted for public facilities and was one of 70 selected by the Office of Community Development for site visits. Of that 70, Anderson said 50 would probably be funded.

The application has been submitted for a third year after two unsuccessful tries. In both cases, the application was rejected because one of the counties involved had failed to spend a required percentage of funds from a previous Community Development Block Grant.

Earlier this year, four members of the board had voted to pursue a Community Development Block Grant Application for a new building for the Hancock County Welfare Department.

The board had been informed that the county could apply for only one grant under the program each year.

A fifth member, former Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar, had voted against the move, saying he had nothing against providing the welfare department with new quarters but that he felt the board should continue pursuing the water system funding.

The other four board members eventually reversed their decisions after a meeting with spokesmen for the Catahoula and Steep Hollow communities.

Anderson explained that he and Mercier were visiting Hancock County Monday to verify some of the information on the grant application as well as to visit the tentative site for the proposed well.

The $654,615 must be matched by $478,650 from other sources. According to Buddy Broadway of Broadway Engineering, which is handling the engineering for the grant application, the Catahoula and Bi-County water systems are both trying to provide the additional funding through Farmer's Home Administration Loans.

According to Broadway, the Bi-County system has received a letter of preliminary FMHA approval contingent on the approval of CDBG funding.

A pre-application has been turned in for Catahoula and an environmental impact statement is being compiled, Broadway added.

One of the major items that Anderson said needs to be added to the application within the next five working days is documentation regarding a State Board of Health moratorium on further construction in the project area.

According to the grant application itself, the moratorium was declared because the area is densely populated but has no sewerage, leading to a danger of possible drinking water contamination due to wastewater run-off.

Anderson said that he hopes to recommend the funding to the governor for consideration by mid-September. He said the board can proceed with the bid procedures for the procurement of construction-related engineering services but will not be able to actually enter into contracts unless and until a grant award has been made.

The board is expected to take action on that matter at its next regular meeting, set for 9 a.m. Aug. 31.

Schober-Dodson

Oak Park Baptist Church in Algiers, La., was the setting for the July 23 afternoon marriage of Leslie Diane Dodson and James Michael Schober, both of Gretna, La. The Reverend David Shanel officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Dodson of Long Beach. The groom's parents are Mrs. Marlene Schober of Gretna and the late Mr. John Schober.

Decorating the sanctuary were arrangements of white gladioli, tuli mums, carnations and fern greenery, areca palms and ficus trees. White candelabra also adorned the church.

Nuptial music was presented by Debbie Maspons, organist; Faith Nance, pianist and Jerry Nance, soloist, all of New Orleans.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white satin and silk floss Schiffli embroidery with modified portrait neckline, pearlized Elizabethan sleeves, and hand-beaded embroidery bodice. The basque waistline gave way to a full skirt with embroidered hemline. The back skirt featured hand-clipped embroidery scallops and medallions with a scalloped cathedral train. She wore a contour headpiece of pearl sprays and crystals with illusion pouf and fingertip veil.

The bride carried a cascade of white silk roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and accents of pale pink fresia, pearl sprays and English ivy.

Mindy Nation of Baton Rouge, La., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Maid of honor was Kathy Dodson of Long Beach, also a sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Vicki Randall of Gulfport; Leigh Thomas of Jackson; Vickie Nowell of Amory; Karen Brown of Biloxi; Jill Schober of New Orleans and Janice Davis of Baton Rouge.

Miss Jessica Schober of Gretna, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

The attendants were identically attired in teal tea-length satinette gowns, each with sabrina neckline, puffed sleeves, V-waistline and slim skirt with back bow and gusset flared to the hemline.

They carried silk nosegays of picardy sweetheart roses, fresia, stephanotis, baby's breath and satin streamers.

Jerry Schober of New Orleans, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were John Schober of Huntsville, Ala., and Jeff Schober of New Orleans, brothers of the groom; Tony Dodson of Long Beach, brother of the bride; Eddie Landry of Dallas, Tex.; Jody Blalock, Michael Lewis and Timothy Tucker, all of New Orleans.

Serving as ushers were Wade Nation of Baton Rouge, brother-in-law of the bride; Terry Gee of Huntsville, Ala.; Britt Rowland and Robert Salvaggio, both of New Orleans.

Mrs. Dodson chose for her daughter's wedding an ivory tea-length georgette crepe dress in long torso styling with inset panel of pearls alencon lace, ruched draping at the low hipline above a flared intermission skirt.

On return from a wedding trip to Ixtapa, Mexico, the couple resides in Gretna.

Triche-Broussard

Main Street United Methodist Church was the setting for the August 29 marriage of Linda Hill Broussard of Bay St. Louis and J. Alvin Triche Jr. of Pass Christian. The Reverend Robert R. Miller officiated at the afternoon double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joyce Hill of Waveland and the late H. C. Hill Sr. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. Alvin Triche Sr.

of Baton Rouge, La.

Musical selections were presented by Mrs. Patsy Smith of Meridian.

Given in marriage by her brother, Dr. H. C. (Blue) Hill Jr. of Houston, Tex., the bride was attired in a pale peach tea length silk dress overlaid with a sheer yoke. Appliques of embroidered lace traced with seed pearls enhanced the bodice, and prism-cut crystals adorned the neckline and sleeves.

She carried a bouquet of peach roses, stephanotis, Boston fern, English ivy and pothos ivy.

Mrs. Robert (Ellen) Kane of Bay St. Louis attended the bride as matron of honor, while her husband, Robert Kane, was best man.

Serving as usher was Robert Hill of Hammond, La., brother of the bride.

A country-style bar-b-que reception followed the ceremony at the Pass Christian home of the groom.

Assisting were Audrey Manuel of Prairieville, La.; Kathy Duplantis, Jamie Duplantis, Karen Davis and Scott Davis, all of Baton Rouge, La.; Kay Buford of Diamondhead and Kenny Crawford of Bay St. Louis.

On return from a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, the couple will reside in Pass Christian.

Cabaniss-Ellis

Patricia Ann Ellis and Joseph Daniel Cabaniss were united in marriage June 20 in a 2 p.m. ceremony at Christ Episcopal Church. A Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Reverend Nick Johnson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Joseph Ellis Sr. of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Tolly Clint Cabaniss Sr., also of Bay St. Louis.

Altar vases held arrangements of white gladioli, carnations, pompons and tuli mums interspersed with baby's breath, while the pews were marked with white satin ribbon bows.

Music was presented by organist Mrs. John McKenna of Bay St. Louis, and soloist Ms. Marsha Daniels of Long Beach.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white sateen fabric with an overlay of re-embroidered chantilly lace and seed pearls. The bodice featured a sabrina neckline and V-back with a large bow accenting the back waist, and full skirt with chapel train. Long, fitted sleeves were adorned with appliques of matching lace.

She wore a tiara headpiece of seed pearl and iridescent beading, which held a fingertip veil of illusion.

The bride carried a sweeping cascade of white bridal roses, enchantment lilies, cymbidium orchids, stephanotis and lily-of-the-valley with ivy, narcissus and white satin ribbons tied in love knots.

Janet Ellis of Bay St. Louis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Connie Ellis and Tammy Ellis of Bay St. Louis, sisters of the bride; and Lisa Craft of Sumrall, sister of the groom.

Mindy Patton of Lizana, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Flower was Sara Waller of Metairie, La., niece of the groom.

The attendants were attired in ballerina length dresses of aqua moire taffeta, each with basque waistline, full gathered skirt and V-back with large bow at the back waistline. Short ruffled flounces formed the sleeves. They wore matching taffeta bows in their hair. The gowns were designed and made by the groom's mother.

The bridesmaids carried sweeping cascades of rubrum lilies and narcissus blossoms interspersed with ivy and satin ribbons in aqua and white tied in love knots.

Ed Pernicaro of Bay St. Louis was best man.

Groomsmen were Gary Karl, David Favre and Jerry Rigby, all of Bay St. Louis.

John Cabaniss Jr. of Baxterville, Miss., nephew of the groom, was junior groomsman. Ring bearer was C. J. Bryant of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride.

Ushers were Randy Ellis of Bay St. Louis, brother of the bride, and Jesse Webb of Starkville, Miss., cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother chose a tea length aqua silk jacquard dress with blouson bodice and dropped skirt with hip sash and bow.

The mother of the groom was attired in a street length dress of gray satin-backed crepe with pearl gray lace overlay, which she designed and made.

The newlyweds were escorted to the reception in an antique Ford convertible owned and driven by Marvin LaCoste.

The reception followed at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3258 of Bay St. Louis.

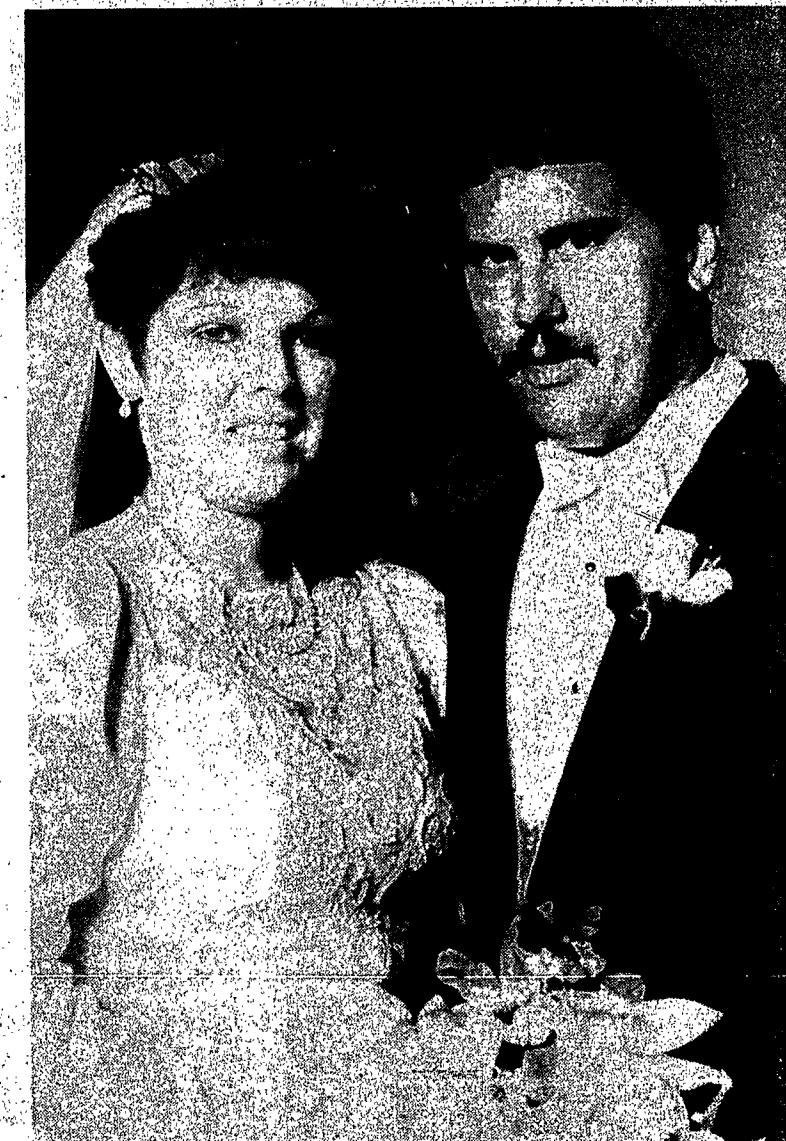

Hall. Assisting were Mrs. Nadine Patton of Dedeaux, Mrs. Rhonda Patton and Mrs. Helen Leonie of Waveland, Mrs. Myrtle Bryant and Deborah Ellis of Bay St. Louis, Mrs. Shirley Maxwell of Long Beach, all aunts of the bride; Wilmer Seymour and David Godbold of Bay St. Louis and Pat Cuevas and Jeff Hoda of Waveland.

Following a wedding trip to Destin, Fla., the couple resides in Bay St. Louis.

The Pass Christian Library is sponsoring a current and retrospective exhibit of works by Pass Christian artist Garnett Mingledorff through the month of September beginning Sept. 1.

Mrs. Mingledorff is a product of the Newcomb Art School having studied there in the years 1938 and 1939; some 20 years later she went back to Newcomb to study art under the well-known artist Harold Carney, then in residence at Newcomb. She also attended numerous workshops, among them a "Water Color" conducted by watercolorist Edgard Whitney, now deceased, and another one taught by Girard de Rose, a portrait painter from the Royal Academy; the latter workshop was at the Mann Gallery in New Orleans.

While a resident of Pass Christian, Mrs. Mingledorff studied under the late local artist Zell McMath for nine years. She has captured many of the coastal mansions and churches in pen-and-ink and her watercolors represent exquisite still lifes of local flora. Presently she is working on portraits in oil and on commissions in other painting media. Her awards are numerous, one of the latest being at the Edgewater Mall Art Show.

NATIONAL AWARD WINNER—Jimmy Loiacano of Bay St. Louis, staff photographer for Martin Marietta's Michoud Facility in New Orleans East, has been awarded the United Way of America's Silver Award in the agency's ninth National Corporate Communications Contest judged recently by a panel of communications experts in Alexandria, Va. Loiacano's winning photograph features Martin Manned Space Flight System employee Robert James with a young client from Kingsley House, a United Way agency in New Orleans. Susan Meeks-Versteeg, senior associate in the

Communications Division of United Way of America, in a letter to Loiacano stated, "United Way for the Greater New Orleans Area joins United Way of America in applauding your outstanding achievement. They share our enthusiasm for your fine work and the way Manned Space Flight Systems has been able to increase employee understanding of United Way and inspire employees to become involved in their community—whether by contributing to United Way, becoming a volunteer, or both."

A Review Gulf Coast lifestyles reflected in Pass history

By Joe Pilet

The book that I invite you to read was never a "Best Seller". It isn't fancy either. It was written about eleven years ago, and the authors wanted to put it within budget range of every one.

The paper is good, but not top quality and the print is easy to read—typewriter style. The cover is a plain gray of medium weight. It surely lacks eye-appeal. But the old adage "You can't tell a book by its cover" is true! Believe me this book is a jewel. It is entertaining. Full of facts and also some delightful trivia. The history of Pass Christian is only a part of the history of the Gulf Coast to be found in this book.

It is delightful to thumb through this book and find out how much our area has developed and grown in these few years. And the amusing but true stories would make good visitors and tourists happy.

For example: there is a "record of trees, shrubs and flowers native to the area; a history of the churches and cemeteries, a record of the hurricanes and lists of those who lost their lives in them; and these two jewels that I will lift verbatim with permission of Katy Caire who speaks for herself and her late husband, Ronny:

"The Battle of Pass Christian in the War of 1812 is actually misnamed; action took place from water off shore of Bay St. Louis or Waveland to Lake Borgne in December 1814."

Are you ready for another gem?

Here 'tis:
"In 1814 Juan Cuevas of Cat Island was captured by the British forces stationed at Ship Island when he found them killing his cattle. He pretended ignorance of the world, not knowing even how to get to New Orleans, and was released by the British."

He immediately left to warn the Americans at the Rigoles of the British presence on Ship Island. For this deed he was later given title to Cat Island by the United States Government."

There's a little shop called Book Ends in Bay St. Louis where this book may be purchased for $5.50. Every School Library—every home should have a copy of this unusual treatment of a segment of Gulf Coast Mississippi.

It reflects more than a geographical area of Mississippi—it records the Gulf Coast way of life!

A United Way Agency

Catholic service provides emergency relief to hundreds

Editor's Note: Following is the fourth in a series of articles being presented by the Sea Coast Echo on agencies which are partially funded by the United Way of Hancock County. The local United Way is planning a Sept. 25 kickoff for its 1987 fundraising drive. Lonnie Clayborn of Waveland is chairman of this year's drive. The goal is $65,000.

Catholic Social & Community Services, Inc.

By Rev. George Murphy

Director

Catholic Social and Community Services, a United Way funded agency, is serving the people of South Mississippi of all ages, races and creeds, and supported by the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi.

Your Hancock County United Way gift helps Catholic Social Services in adoptions. Licensed by the State of Mississippi, the agency is the only one of its kind licensed to provide adoption services in South Mississippi.

Caring and professionally trained staff offer the full scope of adoptive services, bringing loving parents and children together.

Last year many Hancock County couples availed of these services, and new families got started.

Your Hancock County United Way gift helps Catholic Social Services provide unplanned pregnancy counseling by having a place where caring people who will listen and who will help are available every day.

A confidential telephone call makes it easy to establish contact. Help is provided in finding a new place for the pregnant girl to stay, if necessary. Advice and assistance is offered in getting prenatal care all during the pregnancy.

Future decisions on parenting are seriously discussed. Teenage mothers are taught how to be a good parent and how to plan for their own, as well as their child's, future. Catholic Social Services helps hundreds of pregnant teenagers every year.

Your Hancock County United Way gift helps Catholic Social Services provide emergency relief for hundreds of needy people. The Twelve Baskets Foodbank warehouse—the only one of its kind in the area—safely stores surplus food for use in kitchens and by other agencies in feeding the homeless and the hungry.

Help is available with rent, utilities and food bills when someone is caught in an emergency. Volunteers give advice on income budgeting, on where jobs are to be found and on how to go about getting a job. Hundreds of needy people with thousands of dollars worth of requests for assistance came to Catholic Social Services Emergency Assistance Offices from all over Hancock County last year. Your United Way dollars were well spent in feeding the hungry.

Your Hancock County United Way gift helps Catholic Social Services provide a unique counseling service in which wholistic care is provided.

Skilled counselors are available with a listening ear and good advice for the lonely, the hurt and the forgotten.

Your Hancock County United Way gift has helped Catholic Social Services lead many confused adolescents at the right time in the direction of a full productive life.

Catholic Social Services' care for the elderly is its fastest growing area of concern. New retirement complexes with special features have been built, or are being built, to provide safe retirement for our senior citizens in a unique public-private partnership at a value of millions of dollars.

Your United Way gift helps the agency expand its services to the elderly.

Catholic Social Services is proud to be a member agency of the Hancock County United Way. Please give generously to the United Way, please give your fair share.

1988 farm programs require limited cross compliance

To participate in the 1988 farm program for one crop on a farm, Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office, says producers will be prohibited from planting in excess of the crop acreage base for each other program crop on the farm.

"Next year's programs contain limited cross compliance provisions for wheat, feed grain, upland cotton and rice, the same as in 1987," Gennin said.

The 1988 programs also prohibit farmers from producing non-program crops under the 50/92 provision, and from producing alternate crops on Acreage Conservation Reserve (ACR) land.

Under 50/92 provision, a participating farm, with at least 50 percent of the permitted acreage planted to the program crop, may earn deficiency payments on 92 percent of the permitted acres if the remaining permitted acreage is devoted to conserving use.

Grazing of ACR land is permitted if requested by the State ASC Committee, except during a five-consecutive-month period designated by the committee. Haying will be prohibited except under emergency conditions, according to Gennin.

"As in 1987, the 1988 program participants will not be allowed to upwardly adjust any crop acreage base with a corresponding downward adjustment in other crop acreage bases on the farm," Gennin said.

But adjustments in crop acreage bases on a farm will be considered when producers need to change cropping practices to carry out conservation compliance requirements on highly erodible land.

He said generic commodity certificates will continue to be a part of the 1988 farm programs, as necessary.

Other 1988 farm program determinations such as haying and grazing of 50/92 conserving use and advanced payments and the program enrollment period will be announced later.

LATE REPORTS

Late-filed acreage reports will be accepted as long as the farmer pays the cost of verifying the acreage, and there is physical evidence of production.

Gennin said July 15, 1987 was the last day for farmers to report their 1987 planted acres, and several producers in the county have not filed a crop report this year. Later reports are subject to mandatory spot check.

Crop reports are used by ASCS to determine program compliance and to document crop acreage bases.

Before farm program participants receive price support loans, deficiency payments and other benefits, they are required to report crops and acreages planted; the uses to be made of these crops, and cropland acres to be devoted to the acreage conservation reserve.

Gennin said crop report is very important to farm program participants because without the report, they are not eligible for benefits on 1987 program crops. The acreage report determines the level at which farmers are eligible for program payments and other benefits.

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Weekly Tip: Don't be so sensitive to what others do or say.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Have you been neglecting correspondence? Take the time to write a note to someone who wants to hear from you! Don't let a critical remark get to you.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Pay attention to your appearance; it makes a difference in the way you feel and the way others feel about you. You are about to become very popular.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Show more affection for others. A small gift, a kind remark, or a gentle touch says so much.

Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) If you insist on doing everything, it makes you the bottleneck when things pile up. Learn to delegate; it will clear the path to your own progress.

Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) Something has been eluding you for quite a while; you can now achieve your goal since you have greater enthusiasm.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) By staying at home, you aren't accomplishing anything; get out and be active. Find a way to help a friend.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You are an opinionated person, and your arguments are valid, but learn to state them more tactfully. Your future looks brighter.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You are anxious to get into something that appeals to you, so start action on it as soon as possible. Arrange an introduction to someone you admire.

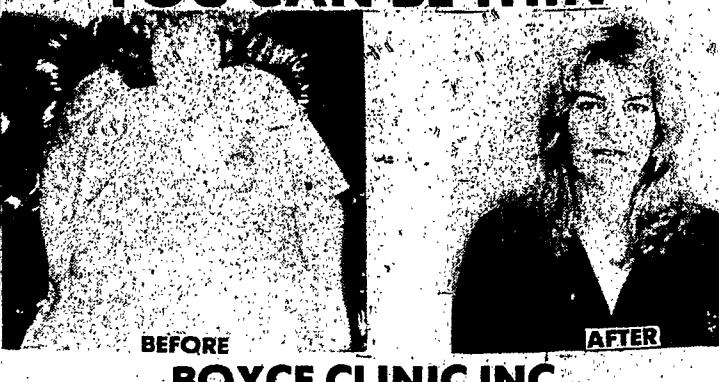

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Get organized and plan wisely so that you get better results in the future. Don't be forceful in your wishes.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Finish each task before starting the next one; people will have more respect for you. Although you just want to have fun, work needs to be done.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Try to have more patience and consideration at home where things may be tense right now. Spend time with friends.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Plan something different and fun for the weekend, but make it inexpensive. Show your devotion to loved ones.

A perfect jam

It's time to think about jams and jellies again. If you had trouble with the texture of yours last year, here's a short true or false quiz to help you learn the secrets to success.

True or false?

1. Foods are safe to eat if mold is growing on the paraffin seals.

2. Sealing jellies with paraffin is suitable and more economical than using self-sealing lids.

3. A gelled texture depends on sugar, jelly and pectin content.

4. Green apples are higher in pectin than ripe apples.

5. Jellies made with commercial pectin are higher in calories.

6. Jellies made with commercial pectin are less flavorful than cooked-down jellies.

7. Using self-sealing lids help prevent discoloration in jellies, jams and preserves.

8. Low-calorie jellies are more susceptible to spoilage.

9. It is unnecessary to sterilize jelly jars before filling.

10. Jars of unused jelly should be refrigerated after opening.

11. The headspace requirement for jellies is one-quarter inch.

12. Jellies that do not gel firmly may be reprocessed.

Answers

1. False—Mold growth on jellies may produce mycotoxins, some of which are known to cause cancer. Discard the entire jar if mold is present.

2. False—Sealing jelly with paraffin in nonmason type jars may seem cheaper. But jelly sealed with paraffin may become moldy during storage and must be discarded, which counterbalances any savings. Use half-pint or pint mason jars and self-sealing lids instead. That way your jelly will be free from mold growth and its flavor and color will be retained during storage.

3. True—A normal jelly should be 65 to 67 percent sugar, have a pH of between 3.0 and 3.3, and be from 0.75 to 1 percent pectin. If the percentage of sugar is lower, the jelly will be a thick syrup; if it's higher, not all the sugar will dissolve and the jelly may have a sandy or gritty texture.

4. True—Green and crab apples are high in pectin. Pectin in ripe apples varies from moderate to low. This explains why many recipes made without commercial pectin prescribe the use of some green apples.

5. False—You do add more sugar, but the native fruits are not cooked very long. In recipes not using commercial pectin, fruits having from 10 to 20 percent native sugar are concentrated by cooking. The native sugars then reach the same sugar levels obtained with recipes using commercial pectin.

6. False—The flavor of jelly products made with added pectins are more like the fresh flavor of the native fruits. Fruits are known to contain from 50 to 300 different chemicals that contribute to their flavor. Most of these flavors are lost during the long cooking time required for reaching the desired sugar level in recipes made without commercial pectins.

7. True—When hot jellies are filled into pre-sterilized jars, sealed immediately with self-sealing lids, and then processed five minutes in a boiling water canner, nearly all air and oxygen is exhausted from the jars and a vacuum seal is formed. Removing and preventing the reentry of air and oxygen is the secret to colorful and flavorful jellies from your food storage throughout the year.

8. True—Some low-calorie jellies are less acidic and much lower in sugar. Both changes make these products more susceptible to spoilage. After they are opened, keep them refrigerated and use them within a week or two.

9. False—Some mold spores are quite resistant to heat. To be sure that these jars will not cause spoilage, they should be pre-sterilized upright in boiling water for 15 minutes. The water level should be 1 inch above the jars.

10. True—Again many mold spores are airborne and may recontaminate the surface of the jelly once the jars have been opened. Since molds generally will not grow below 40°F, opened jars should be refrigerated between uses.

11. True—Jellies should be filled into jars at high temperatures (180°F or above) and processed only five minutes in a boiling water canner. Thus a one-quarter inch headspace is recommended. This practice also makes better use of jar capacities.

12. True—for each quart of ungelled product to be recooked, measure one-fourth cup water and 4 teaspoons of powdered pectin in a pan, mix and heat to boiling, stirring continuously to avoid burning. Add one-fourth cup sugar and the jelly and heat quickly to boiling. Boil one minute, remove foam and pour at once into clear pre-sterilized jars. Seal with self-sealing lids. Process five minutes in a boiling water canner.

SENDING TODDLERS TO SCHOOL

Every little kid thinks it would be neat to be big enough to have to go to school, as he or she watches the older brother or sister go to kindergarten. It has gotten to the point where parents also feel the pressure, and think that their 3- or 4-year-old child really ought to be in a nursery school.

While for some children a nursery school experience can be very beneficial, it is a big mistake to think nursery school is essential for every child. The pressures to send Johnny usually are in the form of "everybody else is doing it," and that is probably the poorest reason of all for sending a child to a preschool.

Parents must ask some serious and probing questions. What are the reasons for sending the child? What will he or she gain from the school that is unobtainable otherwise? What does the child need that this school experience will provide?

What about the cost? Is this a reasonable expenditure? What if we took a fourth of what the tuition will be and spend it directly on this child for specific toys or trips or something else? Would the child benefit as much?

Perhaps the most valid reason for sending a child to a preschool is to provide the socialization experience of being with other children and learning how to play with and relate to other children. Even that need can be fulfilled in ways other than going to a preschool.

The home can offer many enriching opportunities to young children, and we should not fail for the notion that our child is going to be held back for life if he or she doesn't get some enrichment from elsewhere. Children do grow and learn in the home, and parents are extremely effective teachers.

If you decide that your child is one who really would derive some important benefits from attending a nursery school, be sure that you shop around and very carefully investigate a number of places before you choose one. Look for professionally competent, warm and caring personnel at the school.

Observe the facilities concerning safety and cleanliness. Are snacks nutritious or junk food? Is there a real program of instruction, or are the children just being baby-sat?

Don't send your child to a preschool just because the other kids on the block are going to one. But, if you decide that a preschool would be beneficial, select one with the greatest care, for you are entrusting to it your most precious possession—your child.

fair and equitable manner. Fair and equitable does not necessarily mean the same as equal. Consider the present and future income-earning ability of both parties when determining how to divide the property.

If the final property settlement includes promises to pay amounts or to sell property in the future, it must be in writing in a property agreement.

Do not sign the property agreement until you understand it. If you are uncertain about what it means or if you feel it's unfair, consult your own attorney—not your spouse's—before you sign it.

Plans are also needed for the payment of family debts. Family debts include home mortgages, car payments, student loans, bank credit cards, unpaid bills, and unpaid taxes. Decide who will be responsible for each debt.

Usually one person "assumes the obligation" and agrees to "hold the other party free from liability". If he or she does not pay, and the creditor collects from the other spouse, the spouse who has the right to bring action collects from the spouse who agreed to pay.

For free worksheets to assist in dividing property and debts, contact the Consumer Money Management Center at 388-4710.

Seminary planning Marian Year retreat

Cardinal to speak at Catholic diocese anniversary event

BILOXI—It was 10 years ago June 6, 1977, when Bishop Joseph Lawson Howze signed the documents at Nativity BVM Cathedral, Biloxi, establishing the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi and accepting his position as its first bishop, the only black bishop of a diocese in the U.S.

When the Catholic people of south Mississippi assemble at the Gulf Coast Coliseum Sept. 6, their celebration of the diocese's 10th anniversary is expected to rival the installation in magnitude and festive spirit.

Preceded by a 2 p.m. pre-liturgical hour of music by a 300-voice diocesan choir, a black Gospel choir of 60 members from Catholic congregations, and a 50-voice Vietnamese choir, the gala liturgy will begin at 3 p.m.

The anniversary Mass will also celebrate 150 years of Catholic faith in Mississippi, commemorating the establishment in 1837 of the Diocese of Natchez and the appointment of the first bishop to administer the church in the entire state.

Fourteen other U.S. bishops will concelebrate the Mass with Bishop Howze, Cardinal Law and diocesan priests. They include Archbishops James Hickey, Washington, D.C.; Philip Hannan, New Orleans; and Oscar Lipscomb, Mobile; Bishops J. Keith Symons, Pensacola-Tallahassee; Stanley Ott, Baton Rouge; William Houck, Jackson; John Favoloro, Alexandria; John Donoghue, Charlotte; and Joseph Brunini, retired bishop of Jackson; Auxiliary Bishops Nicholas D'Antonio, New Orleans; Carl Fisher, SSJ, Los Angeles; Eugene Marino, SSJ, Washington, D.C.; and Terry Steib, SVD, St. Louis; and Bishop William McCormack, New York, national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

Additional guests at the anniversary Mass will be Msgr. Paul Lenz, executive director of the Office of Home Missions of America, Negro and Indian, and Father Edward Slattery, president of the Catholic Extension Society of America. Both organizations have aided the Biloxi diocese with funding throughout its 10-year history.

Representing religious orders of priests serving in the Biloxi diocese will be Josephite Superior General Father Eugene McManus and Vincentian Father Gadden Menard, representing Vincentian provincial superior Father Dennis Martin.
